SALVATION OFFICERS
WILL WED TONIGHT

The least interesting feature of the visit of Colonel Miles to this city will be the wedding of two prominent Regular Army officers tonight at the 11th King street and Nuuanu Avenue.

While army weddings have not been numerous here, and this one promises to be unusually good from the fact that the contracting parties are well known in Honolulu, both having been recently stationed at the Honolulu Barracks, and also because Colonel Miles will have charge of the master of the ceremony.

Regular Army weddings are considered to be unique—the strangers, the happy faces, the relatives, the interesting testimonies, the tales of humor and the earnestness all combining to constitute a most impressive service. Weddings are always interesting, but most of them are they diverted of all display in the form of costly gowns and jewels and would lose much of their charm.

Colonel Miles has no lack of these things, and yet get for sustenance Miles has few rivals.

Major Willis expects a crowd and will call a non-the largest building in the city and its capacity is limited, so he suggests that the public should come early to insure seats.
